Oh wait... just round and round in a circle and no where to go... Ever wondered why we are not building in construction? This is the problem you will see if you continue to build in your current location. The time has come to start over! Build a new home using the boxes you have collected. They don't just stack anymore! To make them work

Features Key:

Second person 'action shooter'...a bit like an old Sega port - but with fairly decent graphics.

Built from the ground up, from start to finish by skilled game developers.

Only use official/original content (sorry folks, but there's no NFS as such in this).

Fairly polished game play and animation (although due to the very demanding nature of the controls, animation can be a little flicky at times - but it's still fun!).

Full motion video and sound with an excellent 'Big Finish' soundtrack.

Dead easy to play - provides you with the fastest way to learn the game as a whole.

Based on the achievements/points earned to date, you're never really sure what kind of game you'll get next - it could be a bit of a doddle or a marathon sim.

Most high points are granted with no work or play whatsoever (unlike Football Manager!).

If you've any suggestions for any of the features, please let me know. And keep the suggestions coming!

Rocketron Game may be downloaded for free by any internet user.

Once downloaded and installed, Rocketron Game can be played uninterruptedly (although some users have reported that the performance of the game could be improved by adding an optimus graphics card - sorry!) or you can delete Rocketron Game from your hard drive if you're in a hurry!

Rocketron Game does have some internet functionality in the form of online play for a local network - there's a monthly fee and you'd need to talk to our technical help team for more details.

Although I'll be offering new games as they're released, Rocketron Game is geared towards the long-term player who already has a game systems or PC
